Around the Parish

I must admit I do not know what to do with myself! There are no Parish Notes this month. They will be in next month. This means there are 4 WHOLE PAGES, AT LEAST, with nothing on them!!! What to do? Leave them blank, have a shorter Packet (tempting), lots of things to do or go and see, puzzles (James' choice—see page 17). A nice mixture of the above, I think.

The defibrillators have been installed and are working. See page 8 for more. As I mentioned before, there is also a defibrillator at the Brewery.

Many thanks to Joan Beckett for the cover illustration and the Keats poem. Many mornings, in particular, are very “mists and mellow fruitfulness”!

This is an advanced notice that there will be a Children's Christmas Party in December. Full details in the next Packet.

Have a good month

To Autumn

Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness,
Close bosom-friend of the maturing sun,
Conspiring with him how to load and bless with fruit the vines that round the thatch-eaves run;
To bend with apples the mossed cottage-trees,
And fill all fruit with ripeness to the core:
To swell the gourd, and plump the hazel shells with a sweet kernel; to set budding more,
And still more, late flowers for the bees,
Until they think warm days will never cease,
For Summer has o'er-brimmed their clammy cells.

DUST IF YOU MUST

Dust if you must but wouldn't it be better
To paint a picture or write a letter
Bake a cake or plant a seed
Ponder the difference between want and need.

Dust if you must, but there's not much time
With rivers to swim and mountains to climb
Music to hear and books to read
Friends to cherish and life to lead.

Dust if you must, but the world's out there
With the sun in your eyes, the wind in your hair
A flutter of snow, a shower of rain
This day will not come round again.

Dust if you must, but bear in mind
Old age will come and it's not kind
And when you go - and go you must
You, yourself, will make more dust.

Welcome back everyone and a special welcome to all the children new to our school. It was good to see Running Club and Netball Club start their Autumn Term sessions – we are hopeful that the weather will be good for Football Club.

We are delighted that during the holiday work is proceeding on Wren Class floor and the decoration to the cloakroom area and all the hall has been completed. Thank you to Mr Cornish for supervising this as our governor responsible for buildings.

The shed by the bell has been dismantled and removed and work to the trees has been completed so this means plans for improving the play-ground area can start to move forward.

Thank you to Karen and Willow for organising some clearing and the temporary fencing. Our thoughts are especially with last year's Year 6's as they start their new schools. We always look forward to hearing news of them.

Anne Hawkins

Stroll

She picked us up along the lane,
The brindled cat.
Threatened to run under a car
Less we lifted her safely.
Little lithe body.

Pattered along with us,
Stopped now and again to enquire.
Hurried to catch us
Trailing tail lifted slightly.
Lithe lolloping cat

Crossed the line by the gate
Down onto the shore,
Through the boats and the boxes.
She lingered, inspecting, absorbed.
Inquisitive cat.

She didn't fancy the water's edge
But when we returned
She accompanied us back.

GARDEN JOTTINGS

by D.Street

This time of the year days are getting shorter, but hopefully still quite warm, and more hopefully still dry. So it's a good time to take stock and clear up for fast approaching winter, and even look forward to a new spring.

There are plenty of newly fallen leaves around, and there'll soon be plenty more. These can be cleared off lawns and paths. Fallen leaves do however provide a warm and insulating carpet for roots of perennials, and also a cosy cover for over-wintering wild things. So in less open spots spreads of fallen leaves can be left to lie.

Shrubs and bushes will have reached their maximum annual growth. Once trimmed they are unlikely to get going again before next spring. Lawns and paths too can be cleared of perennial weeds like dandelion and plantain. Left to their own devices they'll be at least twice as large next spring, shooting up during the usually mild winters we get down here in Devon.

Low growing spreaders like rock roses and lavenders have now long done with flowering. If not already they can be clipped to encourage new short growth for next summer.

Perennials can be split up, transplanted or propagated before the soil gets too cold and damp to allow them to settle in and start regrowing.

Even peonies, which most books say "just don't try", can be propagated at this time. Only fairly large pieces with growing shoots should be planted. I admit I have only moved peonies, never tried splitting them up. Peonies like cold winters, so this wrench shouldn't really be a problem.

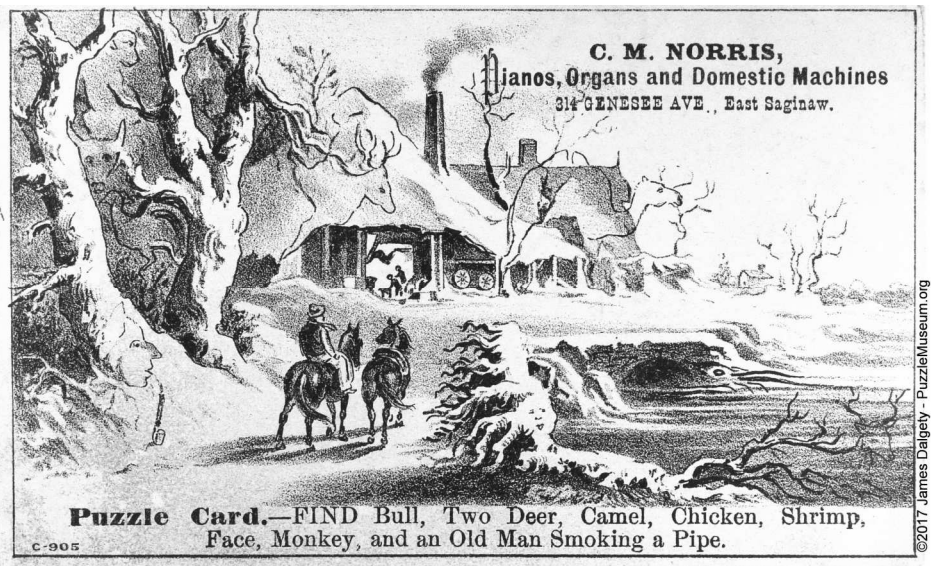

Now is the time to plant dare I say old-fashioned bare rooted shrubs and trees. Loosen the subsoil deeply with a fork and add rich compost. Recently packs of microrrhizal soil fungi have come onto the market. These make for a close bond between root and soil. I watched Monty Don on Gardeners World pour this onto young tree roots in planting holes. To be most effective it should be in contact with the roots. Stake firmly until the roots are established and water in a dry spell.

And I mustn't forget to mention biennials - seeds you planted earlier to flower next spring - foxgloves, wallflowers, honesty, stocks. You may have sown them in trays or containers or in a reserve bed. Autumn is the time to transfer them to their permanent beds.

Then there are veggies to grow during the winter. I was reading an article in Home Farmer last week about winter veggies. If you've an unheated conservatory or greenhouse, there are quite a lot of young veggies you can try. They grow quickly and you harvest them young, especially veggies you wouldn't normally eat, mainly stir fry veggies - pea shoots, broad bean sprouts, corn, fenugreek, sunflower shoots, young radishes and turnips. Even potatoes are possible. Just remember to cover these in bubble wrap in freezing conditions. (It is claimed).

So there you go then. With you garden cleared and sorted for next spring, your stir fry soaking up the sunshine in the conservatory, your potatoes purring in their bubble wrap blankets, you'll be able to relax by the fireside and watch a white winter wonderland glistening outside.

THE REPAIR REVOLUTION

"I'm sorry, sir/madam, it's not worth repairing; it would be cheaper to buy a new one.". How many times have you heard that phrase, I wonder, as you reluctantly consign it to the bin? The words of American retailing analyst, Victor Lebow, speaking shortly after WW2, might help us understand how this state of affairs has come about. "Our economy..... demands that we make consumption our way of life, that we convert the buying and use of goods into rituals.....we need things consumed, burned up, replaced and discarded at an ever-accelerating rate."

However, an initiative started by Martine Postma in Holland in 2009, called The Repair Cafe, offers a welcome alternative route and is now sweeping across the globe with over 1300 cafes worldwide. It's very simple. People take their items - be they electronic, furniture, clothing, bicycles, garden tools or household appliances - either to be repaired by qualified experts or to be shown how to repair them themselves. It can be a real community event too, with the passing on of skills from one generation to another and a chance to meet other members in ones area and make new friends.

We recently visited an "outreach" of the Tiverton Repair Cafe held in Bampton and witnessed firsthand how effective such an initiative can be. For instance, two ladies were fully occupied repairing and re-modelling clothing that had been brought in by local people, while a pedal bike was being re-tuned and a DAB digital radio was being repaired. All this is undertaken on a voluntary basis, with donations from those whose items are being repaired going towards the cost of hiring the premises. It's a Win-Win for all involved - including, of course, the environment, with less stuff going to landfill.

We are considering setting up a Repair Cafe in the Blackdown Hills and would love to hear from anyone who would be willing to share their skills on, say, one Saturday morning a month. So, if you'd like to be part of the conversation, please get in touch with Trisha Comrie on 01823 602908.

To quote The Repair Cafe slogan: "Bin it? No way!"
